the hush of the evening bluish the clouds to ocean ride. For the heart is a blunderful, wonderful thing—a lute with a single stricken string attuned to the evening skies; it will not play in the crowded way, or the garish light of golden day—but over the hills and far away it lifts an evening dies.

I want to go down to the border of town at vesper time, at twilight tide; for none may name me knave or or clown when heaven's sunset stretches wide—and the bitter look is a finished book of unremembered pride. For the heart is a blunderful, wonderful thing, a lute with a single stricken string that trembles in us all; then be he great or friend to False, or be he little, of low estate, prince or pauper—it leaps elate to lilt at evening's call.

All of which is very beautiful—nay, enchanted. Yet rhapsody may merge into profanity, a poetic dream into a grim nightmare, should the inspired but careless bard wander too close to a hornet's nest or lay him down to commune with Nature in a bed of "pison oak." The borders of some towns possess undeniable disadvantages.

THE NEW WET AND DRY LINE-UP

As a result of the November elections there are now fourteen states in the dry column. They are Arizona, Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

There remain 15 states in which half the population live in so-called no-license territory. They are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas and Vermont.

There remain eleven states in which 25 per cent of the population lives in no-license territory. They are California, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.
At different times in the past 23 states have adopted the policy of prohibition.
All but nine for one reason or another, abandoned it for local option or control by license.

California and Ohio, out of the six states in which state-wide prohibition amendments were voted on this fall, elected to remain in the wet column.
In Ohio, the new amendment to the constitution practically places the state in the wet column forever, as it provides that no new liquor legislation shall be introduced into the legislature. The present laws, however, are very strict and are carried out to the letter. The new amendment does not prohibit the holding of wet and dry elections in communities, under the laws that are at present in force.

The states that have voted dry during the year 1914 are Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Virginia.

PORTLAND PERSIFLAGE

(Monday Crawfish.)

W. H. Hardy has the thanks of this office for a noble Hubbard squash, which he brought in and left on our typewriter a few days ago. The typewriter wasn't much good anyway. We won it in a raffle two years ago, and hadn't taken very good care of it.

Paul Ryan, who reports for our est. morning column, says this is a funny old world. Paul went to interview the captain of a ship, and the Cap. called him down because he didn't take off his hat when he entered the cabin. We won it in a raffle two years ago, and
hadn't taken very good care of it.

Harry McAllister is here from N.
Yakima, Wash., where he runs brewery. He says he has traced it to its source, and that he finds that the glass factory rumor started in Seattle, the w. k. Alaskan seaport, and probably right in the P-I. office. He denies the rumor, as well as the one that all the breweries are going to turn other into pie foundries, knitting parlors or scenic railways showing a panorama of the European war.

John P. McManus, ed. of est. contemp. the Pend. Trib., is honoring the metropolis with his presence. Also to see if Doc. Smith stays put.

TWO THUGS ATTACK A WESTON CITIZEN

While going home about nine o'clock Friday evening with the day's receipts of his business, D. R. Wood was held up and assaulted in front of The Leader office on Main street, by two unknown men. One approached him from in front, and while Mr.
Wood was engaged in flitting with this undesirable citizen the other attacked him unexpectedly from the rear, showering blows upon him with some sort of weapon which felt like a slung-shot. Feeling that he was about to fall he dived off the sidewalk into the street, at the same time using his lungs to good advantage.
Fearing the general alarm which followed the two thugs took to their heels without being able to appropriate their victim's money. An informal pounce soon assembled, and headed by City Marshal Wilson made search of likely hiding places without result.
Officers of neighboring towns and the county sheriff were notified, but so far the culprits have made good their escape, although men answering their description were seen to pass through Freewater early the next day. They left their bedding and a red sweater near the scene of their desperate assault, and from the sweater they were identified as two strange men who had been idling about Weston for several days. Evidently they had seen Mr. Wood count and pocket his money and decided to persuade him to part with it, but reckoned without their host, as now and then a Wood can be found who is foolish enough to fight. Aside from a few large lumps on the back of his head, Mr. Wood escaped without injury.

ODD BITS OF NEWS.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Six policemen recently matched coins to see who would adopt an abandoned baby found by an officer on a doorstep.

Bradford, Pa.—A Pennsylvania minister refuses to marry any more men who cannot show an income of $2500 or more a year.

Boswell, Ind.—Wednesday, Nov. 4, was pigeon day in the several surrounding counties. Every man and boy who could get a shotgun assisted in the exterminating of the pigeons, which are said to be the chief carriers of the hog cholera germs.

South Bend, Neb.—Ten years ago Frank Herse, brakeman, lost a leg when his foot was caught in a switch and he was run over by an engine.
Recently he lost his cork leg in the same sort of an accident at the same switch.

Detroit, Mich.—Marjorie Davis, the 17 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Davis, has a freak tooth.
A few days ago her mother noticed a dark spot on one of the baby's teeth and took her to a dentist. The dark spot was found to be a perfect silver filling. As the baby had never visited a dentist before the filling was looked upon as a great curiosity.

Greensburg, Pa.—James Wilson, farmer, wondered why his favorite cow was not giving milk. He followed her one morning and found the cow was mothering a fawn that had escaped from the State Game Preserve.

Charleston, W. Va.—This state went dry on July 1st and at the first session of the grand jury, just completed, 150 indictments were returned, of which 70 are for bootlegging or keeping "blind pigs." This was a surprise to the residents of this county for it was announced before the election that if the prohibition amendment would carry it would put a complete stop to the sale of liquor in the state.

Alton, Mo.—Justice of the Peace George B. Pfeiffer recently celebrated his fiftieth birthday by reducing cost of marriage ceremonies from $2 to $1.
Dayton, O.—Laundryman near here has captive balloon with which laundry is raised above the dust of the city to bleach and dry.
